

Mutant algorithms roam loose across the country, destroying everything in their wake.

Who will save us from their terrible grip?

I am interested in collecting positive and surprising stories of the use of algorithms.

Please tell me about an interesting algorithm

Perhaps a familiar algorithm in an unusual area, or an important context where people might not expect to see the use of an algorithm.

Please include your name and contact email address.

Most surprising positive example wins!